

First Tuesday Research Seminars

Seminar Series Profile

We place the utmost importance on producing a high-quality First Tuesday seminar series; and, therefore feature the Institute's research investigators and other eminent regional and national thought-leaders to share their latest research findings.

"The Institute is committed to sharing all of its cutting-edge research outcomes with the public."

First Tuesday Research Seminars disseminate research findings to a broad interdisciplinary audience. The seminars are held in a conference room on the Medica campus and they are also broadcasted via WebEx and teleconference for remote audience participation. All sessions are open to the public.

Attendees are typically a mix of research scientists, clinicians, health-plan leadership, quality-improvement professionals, and leaders of non-profit community organizations.

Currently, over 175 followers from across the country have requested to be notified of our seminars.
